McKinney Chamber of Commerce Welcomes Newest Member

Windy and Scott Gallagher have been making waves in the world of marketing since their hybrid design agency and print shop, Uurnameonit.com, officially opened in 2003. While their offices are in Richardson, the Gallagher's are proud to call McKinney their home and are excited about becoming new member investors in the McKinney Chamber of Commerce. Uurnameonit.com will have their official ribbon cutting ceremony at the next member gathering, Benefits and Breakfast, on Wednesday, January 7, 2009.

The mission of the McKinney Chamber is "empowering our members to achieve economic success." This is a concept to which Gallagher easily relates, as she has witnessed her own clients, big and small, experience newfound success after providing them with anything from custom-printed goods to entire seamless, personalized marketing schemes.

At their induction into the McKinney Chamber, Uurnameonit.com will receive a membership plaque and the opportunity to post events on the McKinney Living community-wide calendar, which is distributed to over 55,000 homes and businesses throughout the McKinney area. While Gallagher is excited about the chance to become even more involved in her community via the Chamber, she is no stranger to many local organizations. In 2008, the McKinney Family YMCA named Gallagher their Volunteer of the Year, dubbing her their "Philanthropic Reindeer" for her help not only throughout the year, but on holiday-themed events as well.

The McKinney Chamber offers money-saving offers, education, training, and more, but believes the greatest benefit of Chamber membership is often the participation in projects between Chamber members that benefit the whole community. Gallagher shares this view. "We're a very people-oriented business," she explains. "When you're working with us, you're working with real, adaptable people, not just dealing with systems and machines. And we're able to see our clients as real people as well. It's a refreshing way doing business, and in the end, everybody wins."

The Chamber would undoubtedly agree.
